ARTISTIC PROFILE

Michael Needham is a queer multidisciplinary artist, writer, developer, and sound artist based in Nanaimo, British Columbia. Their practice brings together prose, photography, sound, digital publishing, interactive media, craft, and blockchain-based artistic experiments. Their work explores colour as metaphor, queer identity, experimental sound, interactive storytelling, and participant-generated image-making.

Following an injury-related career transition, Needham undertook software-development training and now uses code as an artistic medium for browser-based literary and participatory work.

SELECTED ARTISTIC PROJECTS

2026–present Spectral Quest: Rainbow Craft

Interactive novelette, browser-based game artwork, photography, and software development

Completed prose novelette and playable browser-game prototype. Completion-stage project combining interactive reading, colour-restoration gameplay, original photography, sound, and participant-generated art cards. Written under the pen name ChefMyKLove.

2026 We're Naked!: A Rapture in Three Acts

Interactive browser-based literary work and self-published short story

Written under the pen name ChefMyKLove. Developed an online edition extending the story through responsive pacing, sound, and optional interactive elements. Available at naked.chefmyklove.com

2024–2026 Ordinal Rainbows Vol. 1

Photography, digital art collection, blockchain-based publishing, and web development

Created 64 original photographic works and developed ordinalrainbows.com as the collection's public platform. Used the 1Sat Ordinals protocol on the Bitcoin SV blockchain to explore digital provenance and ownership.
